Sierra Club Lauds Passage of Landmark Climate Package

Sacramento – Today, just before noon, the California Senate voted to pass a package of bills designed to ensure that California's climate change reduction commitment is as strong as the challenge demands. The bill package will help meet the 2030 goals for reducing GHGs that the governor set out in his state of the state address in January.

Statement from Sierra Club California Director Kathryn Phillips:

"This is a good day for the environment and a great day for Californians.

"By passing this bill package to address climate disruption, the legislature is telling the world that Californians remain committed to responding assertively to the most challenging environmental problem in modern history.

"We are so proud of the Senate and of California today."
